Walmer Castle, Notting Hill

This week, the Walmer Castle pub on iconic Ledbury road in Notting Hill reopened after a top-to-toe refurbishment by interior designer Isabella Worsley. There is a welcoming and relaxed atmosphere with open fires, wood panelling, reclaimed furniture, low lighting and plenty of comfortable seating brought together in an earthy colour palette of warming yellow and brown hues. This effortlessly chic new hangout is an ideal spot for relaxed drinks at the bar as well as a Christmas lunch or dinner in one of the two private dining rooms upstairs. The food menu is a tempting mix of unfussy yet delicious seasonal British dishes including north Yorkshire venison carpaccio; halibut with samphire, smoked tomato and corn risotto; a dry aged beef burger with raclette cheese; and mulled apple and blackberry crumble. Run by husband and wife Jack and Poppy Greenall who are also behind the much loved Surprise Pub in Chelsea, we have no doubt that this will become a favourite new watering hole in the neighbourhood. –

Laura Normanton.
