

TRAVEL

The best restaurants in Notting Hill, according to a local

The West is cool again

By Arabella Bowes

25 March 2025

SAVE

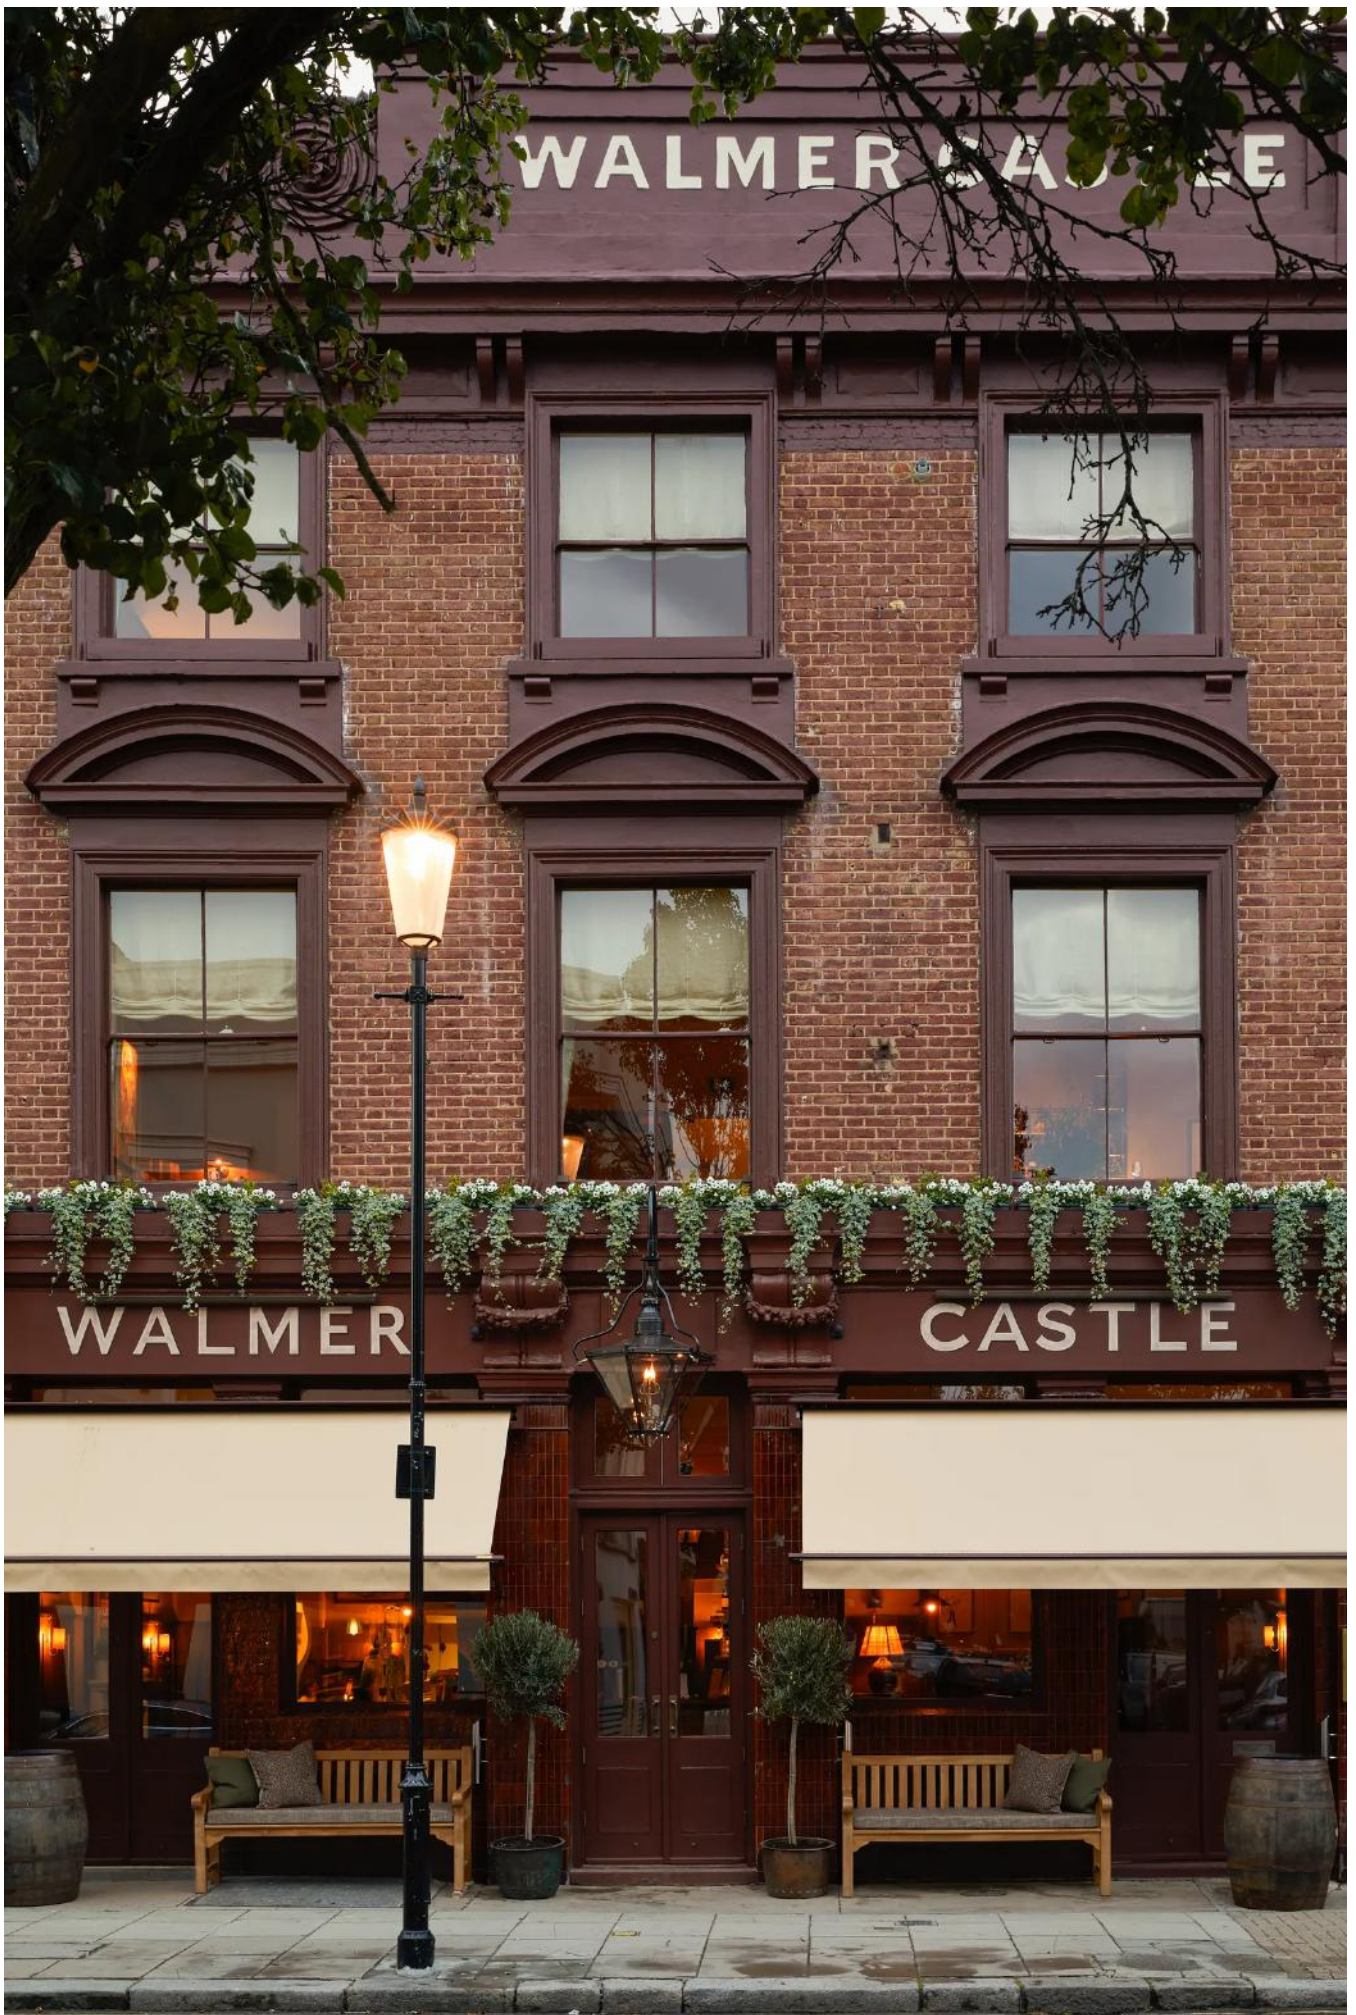

Antique sellers, independent shops, market stalls and beautiful buildings, Notting Hill has them all in abundance—but all that touring is hungry work and eventually you'll need to eat.

Whilst many of Notting Hill's most famous haunts are incredibly expensive, there are just as many lesser-known spots where you can tuck into a meal for less than £10 a head. Whether you're after a light lunch, or a special occasion dinner, we've tried and tested all the best restaurants in the area, to help you avoid tourist traps and overpriced, overhyped spots. All that remains is to dig into our guide to the best places to eat in Notting Hill.

Jump to:

- Walmer Castle
- Gold
- Caia

Helen Cathcart

Cuisine: Gastropub cuisine with flair

Price: ££

Go for: Drinks and dinner by a roaring fire

Nearest Tube: Notting Hill Gate

Location: Westbourne Grove

Set on the iconic Ledbury Road, the Walmer Castle - in one form or another - has been a fixture of Notting Hill since 1845. This winter has seen it reopen under the ownership of husband and wife team Jack and Poppy Greenall, publicans and proprietors of Chelsea's The Surprise, debuting a smart new look.

Once a relatively ordinary pub, the Walmer Castle's interiors have been revamped by Isabella Worsley, one of House & Garden's 'Rising Stars 2022'. The palette is refined and attractive, but relaxed. Described by the team as an 'egalitarian meeting place where all are welcome', patrons can expect all the cosiness of a proper pub, but with the slick service and food of an upscale restaurant. Come for lunch or dinner, and then take your glass of wine to sit nearer to the open fires that roar in each of the rooms.

The kitchen is headed up by chef Georgios Loukas, who has curated a menu that's typical of a gastropub, but with unexpected twists here and there.

ADVERTISING

HEAD TO THE WEBSITE

Gold